New Policies – Confidentiality

Aims: For ICE-HBV working groups members to share data freely without compromising their publications or intellectual property positions

Key Points:

- Confidentiality acknowledgement letter to be signed by all members.
- Intellectual property stemming from ICE-HBV collaborative research remains with the individual working group members.
- Simple administrative measures: notify confidentiality during meetings and electronic communications.

New Policies – Industry Engagement

Aims: Objectivity & Independence in Bench to Bedside Collaborations

Key Points:

- ICE-HBV considers the private sector a core partner in search for an HBV cure, in addition to academia, community, governments, and civil society.
- After the publication date of ICE-HBV first scientific strategy, ICE-HBV will seek to work with private sector corporations in three ways: as sponsors, as donors, and as participants in activities.
- Principles: transparency, non-exclusivity & no-participation in strategic direction or scientific recommendations.
